

Making furniture is how our ancestors taught us to understand, imagine, and make sense of the world, to leave our trail. We work to make our society increasingly aware of good design, to instill life in new and antique spaces, to strengthen bonds by fostering beautiful, creative encounters, and to support those who write poems, design posters, type emails, enjoy gastronomy, play the harp, or contemplate art.

We are heirs of woodworkers in the world of contemporary design. Tradition and innovation are the two lenses through which we look at life. We conceive our collections showing deep respect for what really matters to us: an artisanal tradition that has been alive and evolving for over forty years and our will to maintain a vibrant style that balances beauty and function, technology and craft, and local and global perspectives. We are roots and future; we are origin and destination.

We come in contact with raw materials at the source: we know them, we love them, we shape them with respect, just as our family tradition has taught us. As craftspeople, we include our client's voice in the long-lasting dialogue between wood, metal, and fabric. As designers, we listen, we enquire, we explore the world, and we observe how every chair we sit on is built. As a generation taking on the baton, we began to build a new tradition: one of collaborating with architects, interior designers, and design studios worldwide. Every day we bring together an insatiable curiosity and the recognition of our origins to create pieces that have been selected by chefs to receive diners, architects to make historic buildings more contemporary, interior designers to decorate creative residencies and art galleries, and individuals to bring warmth to their homes.

We value highly what we do but also who we are and what we build around us. We believe the principles of honesty, ethics, and solidarity that began to be forged in our grandfather's workshop to be more important than ever today in making what we understand as good design. Good design is not only about aesthetics, function, and satisfying the clients' needs. Good design is also about maintaining high quality standards and guaranteeing that, at every step of the process, we care for raw materials and for the earth that provides them and that we work to add value to everyone who contributes to the process of bringing our products to life.

We responded to the globalization crisis in the 90s by committing to producing and buying every piece of our furniture in the Basque Country. We have kept this commitment until today, consolidating a production ecosystem that allows us to ship from our warehouse batches of tailored furniture made locally to be used in all sorts of spaces, all around the world.

In our hearts lie tradition, heritage, love for arts, the will to create cohesion between all parts. We care about fostering creativity and wellbeing, we care about making you comfortable, about being there when bonds form. This is what we look forward to every morning; this is why we don't sit down, why we keep moving, facing challenges, and reinventing our business to cater to the needs of our clients. We are driven by the passion and the pleasure of doing what

We do, by how much we value every new perspective we bring to the table, and by the peace of mind of knowing that we support local industry with a sustainable and traceable production system.

For our craft and our clients we remain standing, we won't sit down yet.

The cliff falls into the roughest sea. Loud and persistent waves crash into the rocks, they let you know where they have been. The taste of salt is brought by the breeze. Your hand on the tablecloth. The quiet floors. Your hand on the bed sheets. The depth in between stripes made out of trees. The exquisite, and delicate and soft lies still, right on the edge of the savage, brutal, ancient ridge.

Every once in a while, a time comes, when we crave large, clear, open spaces, when we crave air. Sometimes we just want to walk freely, slowly, aimlessly; to just leave things around for a while; to daydream lying on our backs, on the grass; to watch a bee hovering near the roses; to casually start conversations about unimportant things and know it doesn't matter because we're having them with loved ones.

A creative mind needs movement, versatility, change of scenery. Think about it. Can we be creative sitting stiff, all day, in the one same chair, looking at a rectangular screen? In order to form concepts, to come up with ideas and to make them work, it's good to loosen up, to eat where you play, to be playful when presenting work, to sketch while you think. We access our creative spark when transiting outer spaces and visiting the unusual places outside and within.

A sophisticated woman appreciates art. She notices details: where the piece is placed in the room, how it meets with light, how empowered it sits and how comfortably it hangs, while sharing the wall with others... she notices how a piece meets the spectator's eye. A sophisticated woman appreciates seeing opposites come together in harmony: rustic and contemporary, urban and rural, movement living with the still and quiet.

Green, grey, black, brown, taupe. Soil, wood, herbs, metal, clay. Wild. Wild nature sets the pace and dictates shapes. It crawls through doors, windows and cracks in the floor. The wild is hearth and is fire. In its midst breathe architects, walk writers, sit artists (architects breathe, writers walk, artists sit.). In its midst lies cultures, and life, and, in it, arise enticing encounters. The walls and sliding doors blend in, as do tables, chairs, and taps, and the garden, the couch, the view of the sky.

You want to share your ideas with others. Go elsewhere. Move across the river, the forest, the valley, the sea, the border that limits your horizon. You want to listen and see for yourself, to meet up, to greet. When you travel, though, you seek harmony in the landscape, and where you sleep. In the temporary home, and interim bedrooms, meeting rooms, dining tables and libraries. It matters that there's harmony; it matters, if you care.

Lana

Lana Family

Two great allies, wood and steel, come together to fit out a variety of spaces, from a waiting room or a living room to the lobby of any hotel. The wood version draws on the tradition of curved solid wood. In the steel version the shape of the backrest plays with the dimensions and intertwines with the structure to lend it a more unique appearance.

A small town's church on a tiny road, bordering the edge of a canyon. Inside, no barriers or doors; inside, high ceilings, an apse, a transept, a nave. A medieval scene, to a visitor's eye. A home, on a modern road, of a small medieval town, bordering the edge of a deep, green valley. Inside, beds to sleep in and rooms to read, listen to music, sketch out designs, or just rest, or share a meal with dear friends. An ancient ruin breathes life again.

If you look carefully you'll notice every detail. As you traverse the rooms in an intently composed scene, touch takes charge of how the setting is perceived. Fingertips can sense the smoothness of green leaves and a ray of light sneaks in to warm your cheeks; your eyes are refreshed by the sight of a rough, naked wall exposing its skin.
