A person's Identity isn't an immediate perception but, instead, it has to be unveiled. It is fed by external influences and watered by deep feelings and experiences that can be exalted or just kept as a treasure inside one's heart.

The Unveil sideboard portrays the unknowns of human Identity. The stainless steel frame around the doors in aged mirror means that first look to someone, when, sometimes, we wrongly believe that we already have seen it all. However, we only see what's allowed for us to capture and so, a small fragment of a more complex formation. Only a more closely observation can amaze us with precious details that weren't right away revealed on a first sight.

When we get interested to get closer to the Unveil sideboard, we certainly discover new perspectives that will enlighten us. This surprise factor is interpreted by a continuous border in dark oak veneer with thousands of natural wood veins to admire. They not only contrast with the quiet frame but actually remain hidden behind it. The interior includes a central drawer and three bronze glass shelves. All details are carefully handcrafted because it's worth to unveil one's true Identity.
