HELIUM COLLECTION

by David Redondo

capdell

Helium is a collection designed by David Redondo, a young talent.

The name of the collection comes from its voluminous shapes, they seem inflated like a helium balloon. Its curves conform to the body, enveloping the individual for a very comfortable and warm seat. Helium has been designed with generous dimensions for a very comfortable seat. The height of the seat provides sufficient support in the back, and collects the lumbar areas.

The shell and seat are made of FSC plywood, fully upholstered. Foamed and upholstered on wood. Combination of PUR foams of different densities and thicknesses. Super soft foams: 20kgs and guatel to give sponginess to the chair. Available in two heights: low and high for an executive chair.

It stands out in upholstery for the detail of the “smile” that makes the chair unique, through a shot in the fabric. It generates different harmonious volumes with careful curves, which are related to the curves that define the outer contour.

The collection has a wide variety of bases: corporate legs, with wheels, sled base, cantilever and ash wood. For greater resistance, the wooden legs are inserted into a metal structure. The metal sled base hugs the shell, following the line of the smile drawn by the upholstery. The cantilever base provides a gentle rocking when seated, conveying a feeling of flexibility and comfort.

Helium is an Indoor collection, specially designed for offices and contract spaces, but which fits in all types of environments.
