Foz is my home.

The grand sofa gathers the low tide waves that unfold in the Atlantic breeze, the sunlight kissing the beach atmosphere and the silhouette of a seashore fortress, as precious memories I've been collecting throughout countless golden hour walks.

Joana Santos Barbosa

Foz is a grand sofa that gathers surprising details of a beach located in Porto, in the north of Portugal.

Designed in layers, the contour of the sofa is an ode to the sea waves that slowly reach the shore.

While the loose cushions, that rise as boulders in the ocean, create a feeling of relaxation, the brass base brings to mind the golden tone of the fortified castle that watches over the beach, when gently being illuminated by the sunset rays.

As a final detail, the perched guardhouses seem to be transported to the round shaped armrests that overlap the brass base to look out over the surroundings.
