

Arturo Álvarez

Arturo Álvarez is a renowned Spanish artist and designer, with more than twenty-five years of career, who broke boundaries between design and art. He is considered one of the most outstanding Spanish designers in lighting.

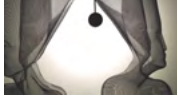

In 2014 he gives a twist to his career and begins to make more artistic pieces, individual sculptures or in composition, with projections of light and shadows, in numbered and reduced series, others are unique pieces.

In July 2020 he put an end to a stage of his working and creative life by selling the lighting company he founded twenty-five years ago, and after placing it in the world elite of contemporary design lighting. His designs can be seen in the Spotify offices in New York, or one of Harvard's libraries, as well as in important projects around the world. He creates new company for new professional and artistic challenges. His current pieces are in prestigious establishments, residential and hotel projects in different parts of the world. His clients are art and design galleries, interiors designers, architects and private collectors.

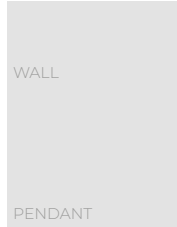

In 2021 and 2022 he is part of a traveling exhibition FSWD, with the most outstanding current Spanish designers, in addition to several international awards won throughout his career.
